LaptopReturn.com
SIMPLE. RELIABLE. RETURNED.

SELL YOUR TEAM KIT

Company laptops, back from wherever they are.

LaptopReturn ships a prepaid return kit to the departing employee, runs every follow-up, and tracks the device until it lands. Pay per return. No contract, no minimum.

WHO THIS IS FOR IT and HR leaders at companies with 200 or more employees who have automated digital offboarding but still chase physical devices by hand.

THE 60-SECOND BUSINESS CASE

TIME

Chasing is a hidden salary tax

At 2.5 hours per return and $70 an hour loaded, that is $175 of staff time per device, before the box and two labels (about $60). Run your own numbers at laptopreturn.com/diy-laptop-return.

RISK

A lost laptop costs a new one

A device that never comes back is about $1,500 in hardware alone, before the data on it. A return credit is $75 to $95. One recovered laptop pays for more than 15 returns.

RESULT

We are not their employer

The ask comes from a logistics company with a prepaid box, so it moves. 92.5% of devices came back across our most recent 10,000 returns.

HOW IT WORKS

1 You submit
Employee details in the portal, under 60 seconds.

2 We handle it
Kit to their door, then email and SMS reminders from Day 3 to Day 42.

3 You see it all
Both legs tracked, every message logged, reports to export.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY · Keller Postman · ansira · La COLOMBE · VERACODE · QBench · zensar

> "It's one of those services you start using and immediately wonder how you ever managed without it."
> Trevor Ewen, COO, QBench

> "Coordinated hardware returns for remote employees used to be a major time sink, but since using LaptopReturn, that stress is gone."
> Gillian Steele, Sr. IT User Services Tech, Veracode

Your first return is free.

No credit card. No contract.
Scan, or go to app.laptopreturn.com/sign-up

How to sell this internally

FORWARD THIS EMAIL

Subject: Getting laptops back from leavers (first one free)

Hi [Name],

We are still chasing laptops by hand when people leave. It takes real time from the team, and some devices never come back.

LaptopReturn handles the physical side. They ship a prepaid kit to the employee, send the reminders, and track it until it lands. Across their most recent 10,000 returns, 92.5% of devices came back. It is $75 to $95 per return, with no contract and no minimum. One-page summary attached.

The first return is free. I would like to run it on [employee]'s laptop and show you the result. OK to go ahead?

Thanks,
[Your name]

COMMON EXEC QUESTIONS

Can't we do it ourselves?

Yes, and most teams try. It breaks at the kit that never goes out, the box left in a spare room, and the fourth reminder nobody sends. The ask also lands differently from a logistics company than from the employer who just let them go.

Is it actually cheaper?

A box and two labels run about $60 every time, before two or more hours of staff time. A credit is $75 to $95 and includes the chasing.

What about security and accountability?

Every return has a timestamped request, carrier tracking on both legs, and a log of every message sent. Add signature on delivery ($5) or insurance ($2.50 per $500). Devices can be recycled with a certificate of data destruction.

Are we locked into a contract?

No. Pay per return, no minimum, and credits never expire. Cancel before the kit ships and the credit goes straight back on the account.

What does the employee go through?

A box that arrives ready to fill and one status page. No account, no login, and nobody from the company hounding them on the way out.

How fast can we test it?

Today. Sign up, enter one employee, and the first return is free. No credit card.

SUGGESTED PILOT

1. Run one free return on the exit you are least sure about.
2. If it comes back, buy a small pack for the next few exits. Ten or more credits drops the price to $89.
3. Make it the default step in your offboarding checklist, so IT and HR stop reinventing the process.

Start your free return

app.laptopreturn.com/sign-up · no credit card, no contract. Rather talk first? laptopreturn.com/book-a-call